Watching Lage take his seat for the start of the game, hood up to protect him from the awful weather swirling around the Black Country, it was like the 45-year-old was trying to make himself invisible. At home maybe! Sitting on the sofa! There are, of course, worse traits to have than humility, but rather than end on the humble nature of two of England's hat-trick heroes, one question remains unanswered... He did really, really well for me at Rotherham, which was an awkward game. But all credit to him, he's done remarkably well by working hard and overcoming things. He netted his first continental goal against Senegalese outfit Teungueth in the first qualifying round, before a double against CR Belouizdad looked to have earned ASEC a place in the group stages, only for the Algerian side to turn the tie on its head in the second leg. As good a job as Gerrard has done so far at Villa, though, it's hard to see him getting anything from the game. Liverpool are just too good at the moment. But Solskjaer's side showed their ability to fight back once again, with Marcus Rashford and Harry Maguire scoring before Ronaldo headed home to make it 3-2. Manchester United, Manchester City, Tottenham, Chelsea and Cardiff are the clubs whose applications to operate licensed safe standing areas have been approved.
